Dear Mr. Flemming:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of 16 October 1953 in which you request certain data from this Agency to be included in a plan for the permanent dispersal of the essential wartime functions of the Executive Branch.

We believe that all of the functions now performed by this Agency will also be essential in time of war. In wartime, as in peacetime, it will be essential for the Central Intelligence Agency to be located in the immediate proximity of the Seat of Government, particularly, the President, the Department of Defense, and the Department of State. In the absence of knowledge of dispersal plans for these important components of the Government we feel unable to give you definitive answers to your specific questions.

We are aware of the importance of this plan and are anxious to cooperate with you in every way. However, it is my belief that this can be done most effectively by consultation with you as the overall planning for other agencies progresses. If this is agreeable, I should like to designate _____ to work with your representative in developing the necessary information.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM FOR: THE DIRECTOR

In connection with a permanent dispersal plan for essential wartime functions of the Executive Branch, which is to be submitted to the National Security Council by the close of this month, the Director, Office of Defense Mobilization, has requested that we furnish information as to what portions of the Agency could be permanently decentralized into more distant locations from Washington, D. C., those which could be located on the perimeter, and those which must remain in the District. He also requests numbers of personnel involved.

The attached reply suggests that it is necessary for us to know what other agencies are doing before we can have a definitive plan, and designates

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

JULY 28 1953

Honorable Allen W. Dulles
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Dulles:

When the duties and responsibilities of the Telecommunications Advisor to the President were transferred to the Office of Defense Mobilization by Executive Order No. 10460, dated June 16, 1953, the Telecommunications Planning Committee, which the President's Advisor had established, was left without legal status.

In view of the recognized importance of the work of this Committee in providing high level policy advice and assistance to this office in the discharge of its responsibilities in connection with telecommunication matters, it is considered desirable to reactivate the Committee in order that its previous functions can be continued. A copy of Defense Mobilization Order-IX-1 effecting the reestablishment of the Committee is enclosed.

The representative of your agency who served on this Committee prior to the promulgation of Executive Order No. 10460 was the Assistant Director for Communications. In order to provide continuity of effort, it is hoped that you can see your way clear to designate the same member to serve on the reestablished Telecommunications Planning Committee.

It will be appreciated if you will advise this office of your designee for membership on this Committee at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Arthur S. Flemming
Director
